Officers while on patrol observed a female in contravention of her release conditions. The female had been arrested previously for assault with a weapon and released on an Undertaking with conditions, including a condition not to attend the residence of the victim. Officers observed the female at the residence, and she was arrested without incident.

The 31-year-old Kingston woman was charged with failing to comply with a condition of her Undertaking. She was released from custody and will appear in court at a later date.
